

Christopher Rudder and Rudderless Travel

Short Weeks & Long Weekends

Christopher Rudder is a travel blogger/writer, photographer, videographer and podcaster at Rudderless Travel. With over 30 countries visited, majority of them during a short trip or mini-break, Chris has built a reputation as the go to person, not just for travel tips and advice but specifically for short week and long weekend travel itineraries.

Whether it's a long weekend getaway in Quebec City to experience the incredible food, a two day business trip to New York City or a day trip to the stunning Cliffs of Moher in Ireland, short weeks and long weekends is always at the fore front. Chris has made stopover and layover travel an art form and loves helping those with limited vacation, maximize their time, by including, food, culture, sights and off the beaten path locations without feeling rushed.

Featured Brands & Partners

Christopher Rudder and Rudderless have worked with several brands in order to promote tourism, brand recognition, experiences, products and services.

Christopher absolutely loves building relationships and strive to produce the highest quality content. Whether its writing inspiring and informative posts, taking viewers through an experience on camera or talking about travel from behind a microphone.

Statistics

Website:

Age - 2 years | 2019 Page Views - 25, 717 |
2019 Unique Sessions - 18 847

Social Media:

YouTube: 500,000+ views
Pinterest: 100,000+ monthly
Facebook (Combined): 5000
Twitter (Combined): 5000
Instagram (Combined): 4000

Toronto Bloggers Collective
Facebook Group (Administrator)
- 550+ Members

Combined = Rudderless Travel & Travel Horror Stories Podcast